Welcome

Hi everyone. Welcome to our winter edition of 'The Beat' and another 4 month look ahead for Macquarie Towns Music Club. I hope you, your families and your friends are all healthy, happy and preparing yourselves for another winter.

Our concerts are still receiving good attendance and feedback and our sessions are getting between 20 and 35 attendees and although we may only get to perform 3 tunes or poems per person they are well rewarded and the session nights have been fun and very entertaining. Don't miss our session this month and we also have a very good Bluegrass band as guest artist in June. Remember we now have a good heater at the venue as well.

On another note, one of my lyrical influences, Leonard Cohen was in Australia earlier this year and coincidentally I am hearing his song 'Hallelujah' (the first song I played at MTMC) wherever I go. Ami Williamson and Bill Bekric did their versions at St Albans and Rachel Dillon played the song with Marcus Sturrock at the recent 'On the Veranda' concert at Grose Vale. Apparently Mr Cohen agonised over this song filling up two notebooks with about 80 verses. It has now been covered by 181 artists and is only second to 'Suzanne' with 185 covers by other artists.

Catherine Delaney has submitted the following extract; In 1683, Humphrey Salter published a book of selected tunes and method for Recorder. His intro to The Genteel Companion is addressed – "To all ingenious Lovers of Musick; I might as well endeavour to persuade, that the Sun is a glorious, and beneficial Planet; as take pains to Illustrate Musick with my imperfect praises; for every reasonable Man's own mind will be its Advocate. Musick, beloved of Heaven is the business of Angels; Desired on Earth as the most charming pleasure of Men. The world contains nothing that is good, but what is full of Harmonious Concord, nor nothing that is evil, but it is opposite, as being the ill favour'd production of Discord and Disorder. I dare affirm; those that love not Musick (if there be any such) are Dissenters from Ingenuity, and Rebels to the Monarchy of Reason."

Festival Reviews

National Folk Festival

By Richard Galluzzi

Well, I think that I'm over my usual "post - festival comedown" enough to write clearly about the National – the "comedown" for me involves a combination of accumulated fatigue, worn out ears and playing fingers, and the realisation that I can't afford to play banjo all day and have to go back to work !

I travelled down to Canberra with my wife Rebecca for the National, minus children, to stay in a little two man tent that we hadn't actually tried out before. Arriving on the Friday afternoon meant that most of the good spots were taken, but we managed to get a little corner that was near to amenities. Once we pitched the tent, we figured out a path to the main festival site and headed up to see some bands.

The bands that we saw over the course of the weekend included The Beenies (3 girls, fiddle, guitar, banjo, bouzouki, Irish flute), Eric Bogle and John Munro (who you should all know, and who put on a great set ending with 'And the Band Played Waltzing Matilda'), The April Verch Band from Canada – with fiddle & step dancing – sometimes at the same time! (banjo, bass, guitar and bodhran and wooden spoons for percussion), Kate Burke and Ruth Hazelton, 'Old Man' Luedecke (with some great original songs and clawhammer banjo). Zumpa from Illawarra played a great set of Italian tunes that my Nonna would have loved and Andy Irvine did a great set with his 'Australian Friends' about Australian songs with Irish connections, including one that mentioned Toongabbie, Castle Hill and Emu Plains! Woohoo!

The other highlight was experiencing this great music at the Session Bar, with a sometimes inaudible mix of Australian, Irish, Blues, Scottish, Bluegrass, Old Timey, Contra Music, etc all happening at once, along with the bunch that were singing Beatles songs and the dreadlocked guys with the djembes. I was very proud of myself having achieved a personal best of finishing up one morning at 5 am with the fiddler I was swapping tunes with and seeing no-one else left standing in the National Folk Festival Session Bar.

Highlights for me were Kate Burke and Ruth Hazelton (complete with clawhammer banjo, guitar and spine tingling harmonies), feeling the banjo neck heat up during rip - roaring sessions, the Hare Krishna feasts for tea, the-slightly more-expensive-but-so-worth-it Coffee stall, feeling the excitement as the cold sets in at sunset and the lights come on, and, of course, seeing everyone that you haven't seen since the last festival and all those you will see at the next.

St Albans Folk Festival

By Dez Williams

The 2009 St Albans Folk Festival was a musical blast just as usual. With a variety of well known performers at the Marquee that continually provided first class entertainment for an enthusiastic audience. These artists included past MTMC guest artists Karen Lynne, Pat Drummond, Marcus Sturrock, Acoustic Shock and Fergusson Elliott. Kaz and I particularly like The Beez who we got to see on Saturday night and also at their 59th and final Australian performance on Sunday prior to flying back to Europe. Endo Kenny, whom I had never heard of prior, blew me away with his perfect unison of voice, guitar and ballad and had us all enrapt with his down to earth repertoire combining his Australian and Irish roots.

On Anzac Day we were awakened to a bugle playing 'The Last Post' which then continued on with renditions of various jazz compositions. The sound drifted across the valley.

Further musical talents were exposed at the campfire site behind our tent where we were consistently entertained over the weekend.

Kaz, Lina and I performed 3 of my songs at the Fickle Wombat 'Blackboard Concert' along with many other entertaining acts.

The patrons of the Settlers Arms were continuously entertained by various sessions and the festivity of music and rhyme was non-stop over the weekend while the pub was open and afterwards.

I attended an alternative guitar tuning workshop held by Michael Azzopardi along with about 15 other guitarists. Michael's explanation of common alternate tunings was well understood and also outlined the importance of practice and finding your own style.

The festival has come a long way since its origins at the back of the Settlers Arms in the mid 1980s when our little folk club were the organisers and facilitators.

The only downside this year was the lack of a sufficient amount of toilet facilities and the southerly winds that tore down the valley on Sunday and tore down a lot of awnings, tarps etc with it.

It was good to see many MTMC members there to enjoy the festival & these include Kath & Alex, Taia, Rachel, Phil, Chris & Ruth, Jan, Lee, James, Richard, Selina, Kaz & I.
